CITY COMMISSIONERS LOOK OVER CITY'S NEW SEWER PLANT
...Tuesday as Dodge and Fernandez (at right) explain operation

New sewer plant goes on the line

Belle Glade Public Works Director John Scottie began work just in time to go along with city commissioners on an inspection of the city's new sewage treatment plant addition Tuesday.

The tour was a part of Scottie's first day in his new post, and while it isn't completely working as yet, Tuesday was also the first time the commission has seen the $340,000 plant in operation.

A "Duke" Dodge, president of Purification Plants, Inc. of Fort Lauderdale, the firm which built the plant, was on the scene along with Briley, Wild and Associates engineer Rick Fernandez, to help explain the operation of the plant to the city officials.

Dodge explained the plant is fully operative yet, although a flow is going through it, because it hasn't yet built up the bacteria needed to break down the sewage, nor the solids needed for the process.

The plant, which adds a one million gallon per day capacity to the city's existing plant, should have the bacteria count needed in about a week of operation, Dodge said.

The new plant gives the city a 2.5 million gallon per day capacity in handling raw sewage, which is expected to be enough to handle excess water infiltrating the collection system in all but the wettest months of the year.

The plant was later than expected in going on the line, according to estimates made in November. Fernandez said at that time he expected the plant to go on the line in six weeks. Nine weeks have now passed.

Fernandez also said at that time he believes the new plant will satisfy Department of Environmental Regulation requirements and may even give the city some room for new connections and an expansion of the system.

South Bay plans pay off

SOUTH BAY — Advanced planning has paid off in the form of a Community Development grant of approximately $80,000 for the city according to South Bay Zoning Board Chairman Byron Walker.

Walker said South Bay was the only city to submit a complete grant application and priority list to the Palm Beach County Area Planning Board. Present plans are to use the 1975 grant to build a sidewalk from SR 27 west on Palm Beach Road to Rosenwald Elementary School. A wooden footbridge at the approach to the school will be replaced with a steel structure.

A portion of the funds will be used to repair drainage ditches in the southeast section of the city said Walker.

An amount of $10,000 will be set aside to develop a comprehensive plan for the city. All Florida cities are required to prepare this comprehensive plan for growth and development under the state's Comprehensive Planning Act of 1975. The plan must address 11 different areas including land use, subdivision regulations, zoning, recreation and transportation.

Although funds have not yet arrived from the 1975 grant, the city is already making plans for use of 1976 allocations. At the top of the priority list is repair of the city's water and sewer systems. There are also plans to use part of the grant money to purchase Jeffries Park to address SR 27 at the southern end of the city. The park is owned by the city of Belle Glade but was leased to the city until this year. Now Belle Glade Commissioners have decided to sell the property.

The Zoning Board chairman said he will recommend that part of the 1976 allocation be used as matching funds for a grant from the Housing and Urban Development Administration (HUD).

"It is perfectly legal to match HUD funds with money from the Community Development program," explained Walker.

Bulletin

Palm Beach County Commissioners Wednesday approved an $85,000 expenditure to be used in the interlocal agreement for which South Bay applied.

after only three months

Harrelle resigns

SOUTH BAY—After only three months on the job Lomax Harrelle, Jr., who took over as Public Works Director November 4 following the resignation of Tom Flemming, resigned himself at the South Bay city commission meeting Tuesday night.

The 38 year old Harrelle said he would remain until the city finds a replacement but urged commissioners to move quickly to hire a new public works director.

Harrelle had apparently discussed his resignation with some of the commissioners, but Tuesday was the first night he publicly announced his plans to leave the city.

He told the commission he has been offered an increase in pay to return to his former post as Public Works Director of Babylon Township, Long Island, New York. He said he would also be eligible for 20 year retirement benefits after working five more years in the New York township.

South Bay Finance Director A. R. Grigsby said he has discussed the public works post with former Belle Glade water distribution superintendent Edward Trammell. Trammell, who resigned his Belle Glade post November 28, is considering the job but has not decided whether to accept said Grigsby.

The most pressing matters now facing the city, according to Harrelle, are upgrading of the water plant and repair of city street's. Only one of the three pumps at the South Bay water plant is in working condition, and the city would be without water if that one failed warned the outgoing public works director.

Harrelle was given approval to draft bid specification for a new pump at the Tuesday meeting.

"The water plant is a must. The city has no choice but to upgrade it," Harrelle said.

At a budget session last week, city commissioners discussed the possibility of replacing deteriorating water pipes.

The city commission hopes to fund repairs in the water and sewer systems through a Community Development grant.

The outgoing public works director said he considers his most important accomplishments to be the repair of city water meters and organization of the public works barn.

About 12 percent of the water meters were out of order when he arrived in October said Harrelle. Now every meter in South Bay is functioning he said.

Harrelle said he also oversaw the repair of all equipment in the city barn and organized the materials in the barn in a more efficient manner.

The public works director emphatically opposed sale of water to South Shore Water Co. of Lake Harbor.

"Absolutely not. Our plant is already working 19-20 hours per day just to supply South Bay with water. We can't take on Lake Harbor too," he maintained.

Harrelle said he accepted the South Bay post to help the city reorganize its public works operations and to be with his ailing father, Lomax Harrelle, Sr., who suffered a partial loss of sight last year. The elder Harrelle is now recovering, and the public works director said he felt free to return to his old job.

Harrelle said his former employers have offered him a much higher salary than the $300 per week he receives at his South Bay post.

Glades juries given support

Members of the Palm Beach County Legislative Delegation expressed support for a proposal to establish a separate jury district in the Glades, but several said they favored a general act which would effect the entire county rather than a special act for the Glades.

County Judge Don Adams and Assistant State's Attorney Michael Miller appeared before the delegation when it convened last Friday in Belle Glade to make the request.

Adams said there are no legal impediments to holding jury trials in the Glades now but that traditional opposition by coastal residents makes it difficult. He predicted there would be less opposition if coastal residents were not required to travel to the Glades for jury duty.

If a separate jury pool was established, people living west of 20 Mile Bend would report for jury duty at the Glades Office Building while residents of the Coast would continue to report to the County Court-house in West Palm Beach.

Adams said authorization of jury trials would be the final step in providing a "total court system" for the Glades. He pointed out there are more people living west of 20 Mile Bend (range 38,400) than there are in 30 Florida counties. He said the present Glades population is about 35,000 and continuing to grow.

Even while SR 90 is widened to West Palm Beach, the trip to the Coast will still be a long one Adams pointed out. He referred to a letter from a Canal Point resident who protested that his wife was required to drive to West Palm Beach for jury duty on SR 90 when there are no telephones, service stations or other emergency facilities along most of the route.

Assistant State's Attorney Miller supported the judge's

An estimated 200 sugar cane growers and others involved in the sugar industry attended a two-day Sugar Cane Harvesting Field Day began Tuesday morning at the Agricultural Research and Education Center (above) with two talks and demonstrations of mechanical planters. Other exhibits were held Tuesday and all day Wednesday as the growers toured the Glades, courtesy of the AREC, the Florida Sugar Cane League and several manufacturers.

BELLE GLADE CITY MANAGER GEORGE KNOBLOCK WELCOMES
...Public Works Director John Scottie and Fire Chief Pete Webb to city

City hires new fire chief and public works director

Belle Glade City Manager George Knoblock solved two of his more pressing personnel problems in two days' time this week when he hired a new fire chief and a new public works director.

John W. Scottie, formerly assistant public works director for the City of Margate, began his duties as Belle Glade Public Works Director Tuesday.

Alfred Eugene "Pete" Webb took over as fire chief for the city on Wednesday. Webb was formerly assistant fire chief for the city of Lima, Ohio.

Webb, 45, served on the Lima Fire Department for 23 years before coming to Belle Glade. He received fire service training at Bowling Green University in Ohio and also took courses at Ohio State University.

He moved to Belle Glade with his wife, Darlene Kay, and three children, before Scottie, 49, came to Belle Glade with his wife, Phyllis, and two of his three children. He was born in Mt. Vernon, O.

Before accepting his position at Margate, Scottie was the Superintendent of Public Works at LaBelle. Other experience includes his position as Superintendent of Water in Delaware, O., and Director of Public Service in New Carlisle, O.

"He holds papers as an Advanced 'A' operator for water and sewer treatment plants.

Scottie replaces Belle Glade's first Public Works Director, Clifford Burgess, who resigned Dec. 12 to return to his former position as Public Works Director for Pasco County.

Webb replaces former Belle Glade Fire Chief Floyd Smith, who retired Sept. 30 after 21 years on the department. Smith began a full time occupation as a contractor on his retirement from the department.

Judge Adams starts crackdown on welfare fraud

Two Glades women who pleaded guilty to welfare fraud were spared jail sentences but were ordered to repay the amounts illegally received and placed on a years probation by County Judge Don Adams Tuesday.

A court spokesman said the action against the two women was the result of a crackdown on welfare cheating.

Judge Adams approved an agreement between Assistant State's Attorney Michael Miller and Public Defender Sam Powers that one defendant, Verdell Atkins, of 800 McClure Road in Pahokee, would not have to go to jail if she performs volunteer work two mornings each week at the Glades General Hospital for the year of probation in addition to repaying $4,000 in illegal welfare payments.

"Restitution per se is not satisfactory in a case of welfare fraud," Adams commented after issuing the order.

"I am trying to think how much time you could have spent in jail for this offense," the judge told the defendant. He warned that she would be jailed if she fails to comply with the terms of probation.

Miss Atkins was ordered to report to the court every week for the first month of her probation and every month thereafter.

The second defendant, Linda McCauley of 636 Rardin Ave. in Pahokee, was ordered to pay $710 in illegal welfare payments and placed on a year probation.

Question of the Week

(The Question of the Week in this issue deals with the practice of accepting federal tuition grants and then dropping out of school employed by some students at Palm Beach County Junior College. A report on these abuses and a new policy to combat them was published in last week's Belle Glade Herald.)

Do you agree with a new policy of withholding part of the tuition payments for students on federal grants until after the drop deadline in view of abuses by some students?

Christine McKeever
Freshman, PBJC Secretary
I feel like they should withhold part of the money. Some students take the money and drop out — it does happen, I know. If they hold back part of the money, more people will stay in school.

Earl Sweeney
student government vice pres.
Yes I do. I know for a fact some students take the money and drop out. It's just a game for them. The ones who abuse the grant spoil it for those who are interested in bettering themselves. There should be stricter rules on reviewing applications too.

Ernesto Garcia
sophomore
I agree. It's good business practice on behalf of the government. If they're going to put out the money, they should have some assurance the money will be used correctly. I think there should be exceptions in certain hardship cases, however.

Gregory Coleman
I don't think the grants should be withheld. Very few students who are on grants drop out. A lot of people need to buy books and other things for school.

sophomore
I agree because I know students have been taking the money and then dropping their courses. There's no reason why the student can't wait until after the drop deadline for the rest of his check, because he can always get a loan to buy books from the guidance counselor.

Dale Morris
post graduate student employed at Bank of Pahokee
I definitely am in favor of the policy. I can't say I know of anyone here who has done it though. It only makes sense to make the students prove they are accepting the money in good faith if these abuses are occurring.

Okeechobee Center hit with burglaries....again

Burglars hit again at the Okeechobee Center Housing Authority taking articles valued at over $2,000 from the home of Okeechobee Center director Harvey Poole, Sr. Sunday night. Poole told Sheriff's Det. Harry Driggers he discovered the burglary about 8:35 p.m.

Tips on canned foods

For any of you concerned with using home canned foods, here are some safe handling tips from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

*Examine each jar closely. A bulge or leak means the seal is broken and the food may be spoiled. Discard it.

*When opening the jar, check for spurting liquid, off odor, or mold. Food that appears too soft or mushy may also be spoiled. Destroy this food so that your family and pets do not accidentally eat some of it.

Even if everything looks OK, don't taste home-canned foods right out of the jar. Pickles and relishes are an exception; they're processing with vinegar prevents problems.

after returning home from church. The burglar apparently crawled through a bathroom window which had been left partially open. Two bedrooms were "ransacked" including drawers, dressers and closets according to Poole. The housing center director said the burglars also went through a dining room cabinet and the kitchen icebox.

The only clues to the case were two leather buttons believed to have come from the burglar's coat said Driggers.

Among the property listed missing is an antique rifle, jewelry, and money said the detective.

The same evening another burglary was reported by Alphonso Funderbruck, 24, of 39 Everglades Place, Okeechobee Center. Funderbruck said he left home at 3:30 p.m.

Sunday and returned at 10 p.m. to find the screen had been pushed out of the rear kitchen window and the window forced open.

A neighbor said she heard dogs barking at the home about 9:05 p.m. but didn't see any activity. The stolen property included a Panasonic television worth $300, a General Electric Record Player worth $150, and three cameras with a combined value of $610. Alma White, 74, is also listed as a resident at 39 Everglades Place.

A rash of burglaries has occurred at Okeechobee Center in the last two weeks according to Det. Driggers. The Sheriff's department thought they had a suspect, but the man is in jail on other charges and the burglaries have still continued said the detective. Most of the burglaries have taken place in unlighted houses while residents were away said Det. Driggers.

Twelve Glades students on dean's list at Palm Beach Junior College

A total of 12 students from the Glades won places on the Palm Beach Junior College Dean's List for the fall term, with Brent A. Woodham of South Bay earning a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

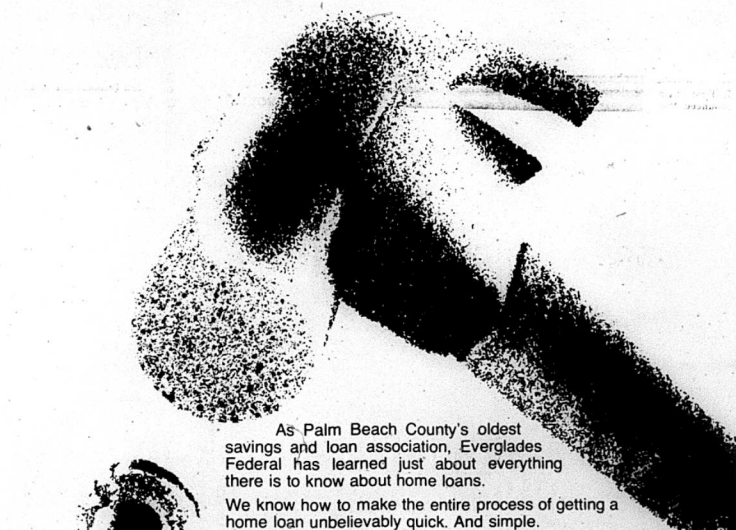

Eight Belle Glade students were among the 592 scholars earning a 3.0 average to qualify for the honor list. Two were from Pahokee, two from South Bay and two from Clewiston. From Belle Glade were Dorothea L. Booth, Linda C.

Cox, Charles D. Goodlett Jr., Glenda D. Nelson, Abelardo B. Rodriguez, Elizabeth C. Smith, Maria I. Torres and Joseph F. Zerega.

Woodham was joined on the list by E. James Miller, also of South Bay. From Pahokee, there were Tania M. Peret and Marnie L. Washington and from Clewiston were Ralph K. Causseaux and Dominick L. Verducci and from Moore was Mary N. Richie.

Glades hospitality

It was good to see the reaction Friday when the Palm Beach County Delegation held its first public hearing in the Glades in 25 years.

It probably was in no small part due to the present chairman, Tom Lewis, since Lewis has made sure to contact residents of outlying areas on a regular basis since being elected but the other legislators were no less welcome than he was.

So many times, when someone from the coast does come to the Glades they're virtually ignored but that wasn't the case Friday. There were a number of people with problems and suggestions for the lawmakers and the hearing turned into the forum for ideas it was intended to be.

Now that we have them started, maybe it won't be that long before they, and others, will be back to sample Glades hospitality.

Pot Liquor

by R.D. Santee

This newspaper has been invited to the christening of the newly completed sewer plant.

I view this with a certain amount of trepidation. I don't know what to wear. Other questions also come to mind, to wit:

- 1) From what branch of the ministry will the presiding clergyman come? (Hopefully not a Baptist.)
- 2) If this is to be an occasion of great celebration, will refreshments be served, immediately following the ceremony? (May I suggest creamed beef on toast?)
- 3) If photographs are taken, how will we position the subject?
- 4) To whom do I offer my heartfelt congratulations?
- 5) As is the case in many occurrences of this sort we usually get a photo of the first customer. This does in no way bother me, but how will we find him?
- 6) In the case of christening ships, a bottle of champagne is smashed against it's bow. What will we use here? Hale's M.O.? Serutens? (I suggest using a rare vintage Black Draught to give it some class.)

All in all, there are too many uncertainties involved in this festive occasion. Unless the planning is improved and a definite program of events is laid out I shan't attend. It is a job for someone of lesser talent and good stomach.

A B Z'zzz! ★?

Look! Look at Johnny! Look at Johnny read! You can't see Johnny reading so well? Well, you aren't by yourself but what kind of answers do you get when you ask why?

It seems that according to the Official Word from the Palm Beach County School system, Palm Beach County Johnnies can't read as well as other Johnnies around the nation because they're from poor families and can't do any better. At least that's the word coming out after county parents learned once again what they find out every year; that their kids don't score as high on achievement tests as the national average.

We're not educators but that old shibboleth smell mightily lak a red herring put out by people who don't know or don't want to admit why Johnny can't read.

We tend to agree with an educator we talked to recently who said that if you tell a kid long enough and often enough that he's stupid, he's going to begin to believe it after awhile. But if you don't pay any attention to where he comes from, he'll probably learn about as fast as anyone else in the class.

And when you add to that the fact there are no standards of excellence in Florida's schools today, that the student is going to be passed whether he learns or not and that many school administrators are reluctant or afraid to enforce classroom discipline, you no longer have an educational system.

If anything, you have a system designed to obstruct education.

Luckily, state legislators like Phil Lewis have found what the situation is and say they're correcting it at the state level. Lewis said here Friday a standard is being set and administrators can no longer say the state Administrative Procedures Act ties their hand in enforcing discipline.

State Senator Don Childers has even gone so far as to introduce a bill requiring school boards to be responsible for discipline, even to the point of hiring armed guards to stay on campus.

We're not sure we'd go that far but at least the pendulum is swinging in the right direction.

It's our money too!.....

It is heartening to learn that many Palm Beach Junior College students agree something needs to be done about those who abuse tuition grants. Although this week's Question of the Week is not a scientific survey, it does show that many students are concerned about the problem.

One key point expressed by many students is that the grants are paid for with public tax money. To paraphrase one student, we the taxpayers have a right to a return on our money. If a student pockets his tuition and then drops out, we are being cheated.

Another point mentioned by students is that a handful of students who abuse the grants can hurt the entire student body. Not only do scholarship students suffer, but money is wasted on those who don't go to school when it is needed by others who really seek an education.

According to Cecil Conley, executive vice president of Palm Beach Junior College (Glades), half of the student body is on scholarship which he says is the same at most other colleges.

Conley is correct when he says he's all for the grants. Many students would be denied an education due to lack of money without the grants and there is no reason to discontinue them. The policy initiated by Conley to split tuition checks so that the student gets only enough for registration prior to the official course deadline is a reasonable solution to the problem. Students who drop their courses after the deadline won't get the rest of their tuition check, which can be as high as $456 per semester.

Most students can make it through the first few weeks of school without the entire check, and special loans could be made available in hardship cases. There is no perfect solution to this problem, and no doubt some students feel insulted by the policy. In view of the serious abuses, however, it seems reasonable for students to prove their good faith.

Perhaps a long range solution to the problem would be to apply stricter admission standards. This does not necessarily mean raising academic requirements, but it does mean students demonstrate motivation. The standards for admissions and continued enrollment should be the students' willingness to put forth effort for an education.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Hoo, boy, sports fans, looks like that's where it was at this weekend for the Cracker Boy. Sports that is. This town has been full of 'em the past few days.

And they ain't been half bad. Like those little pint-sized baseball experts playing their elimination tournament over at the Belle Glade Elementary School athletic field.

Baseball ain't my cup of tea ordinarily and when I was asked to go, I said I would but there could have been maybe four or five things I would've considered more interesting. Like going down to the sewer plant to watch the bacteria work or seeing how many times in a row I could flip a nickel before it landed on its edge.

Once I got there, though, I was glad I had. Man, those little dudes were playing softball but they weren't playing, if you know what I mean.

Spencer's team hadn't been beaten before they began play but Melvin Lockett's boys were so fired up they took the first game 4-3...and that's the first time I knew there was even a chance of a second game and that's one that blew the top off.

The kids were playing five-inning games, because the powers that be figured they weren't your everyday Jackie Robinson or Catfish Hunter type and didn't need to be playing so long. Ha! And Ha again!

It wasn't until the top of the 11th that anybody saw fit to come into home base...and I don't really know if they were that good or they just didn't want to stop playing. But you gotta figure that by the time the second game was over, those kids had played 16 innings of softball with only a short pause for the good cause between games.

Like I said, I ain't no kind of your baseball fan and it's been more than a day or two since I've watched more than an inning in a row but I enjoyed watching that game. Matter of fact, if the adult leagues played the same brand of ball, I'd probably be out more often watching them too.

There was a little second baseman not much taller than knee britches that had to've caused at least a couple of double plays. Most kids that age would've hung onto the ball from now if they scored an out but not him. Didn't seem like it had hardly hit his glove than it was on it's way to first.

Then there was Friday night, which is described pretty well on the sports page by Karen in her Korner.

Actually, I'm not so sure what the American Red Heads did to the men from Glades Central who were playing them could be called sports.

Considering the way Rosie Waters and her crew were clowning around the court it looked more like show business to me but whatever you want to call it, it was hilarious.

Got me in just the right mood to go over to a friend's house Saturday night and help him team up on his and a neighbor's sons and daughter. Course we had to get some help from his neighbor too...the old man, I mean not more kids.

First time I've handled a basketball in white now and I kinda surprised myself. I made a basket...and never mind the basket was five feet off the ground to accommodate the shorter set. Have to admit though. Them weren't exactly regulation rules we'uz playin' by. On t'other hand, maybe it wasn't so bad to just pick up a player and trot him off the "court" and declare him out of bounds.

There's a moral there somewhere but I'm not sure what it is or if it should be recognized. Maybe its that kids should be required to play more innings and longer periods than adults. Anything to get rid of some of that energy.

Matter of fact, if the International Olympics Committee ever decides to sponsor a real marathon, and I ain't talking about one of your 26-mile runs, I mean a long one, I figure that's the place to put the six-year olds.

When have you ever seen a major league pitcher hold out for 16 innings?

Just like the Rev. Mathews said Monday night at the Glades Central Winter Sports Awards Banquet, you gotta have a superiority complex.

And Rev. Mathews, who was head coach and athletic director for 16 years at Bethune-Cookman, seemed to know what he was talking about and how to say it.

Matter of fact, and I think anyone attending that banquet would agree, the man who coached the head coach and athletic director at Glades Central was one of the best speakers I've heard in a while. And when you're in this line of work, you hear a lot of people blow air over the years.

I mean, those kids were climbing us like...they were swarming up a pecan tree with the first ripe nuts of the year and besides that they cheated. They didn't smoke and when we called off the game because we were fagged out they were ready to go for a couple more hours.

Red Heads

All-American Red Head Rosie Waters seems to be contemplating the world but if she is, it's the world of basketball. It was part of the half-time show Friday and she was spinning a basketball in one of several positions. The Red Heads defeated the GCHS men 81-79.

Defeated by Blue Devils

Raiders lose away hopes

The Glades Central High Basketball team won an easy game against Lake Wales Thursday but lost to North Shore on Saturday and Palooka on Tuesday virtually eliminated any hopes for a share of the conference championship.

"The bad part about the loss against Palooka," Raider Coach Jay Seider said Wednesday, "is that Atlantic lost last night too. If we'd won, we would've been only one game behind.

"As it is now," he said, "we're just about out of it. All we can do now is to concentrate on the district."

The 71-70 loss against Palooka, Seider said, came as the result of a missed layup shot in the last few seconds of the game which would have given the Raiders a three-point lead. It wasn't until after that shot was missed that Palooka came from behind in a last gasp effort to win the game by the single, crucial point.

"Free throws kept us in the game," Seider said. "They went to the free throw line only 16 times and we went 31 times. They made nine points and we made 22."

"We had our chances," he lamented, "and we missed them, but I still remember that layup."

Michael Pringle was once again the leading scorer for the Raiders, scoring 20 shots and hauling in 17 rebounds. Against the Blue Devils on the Devils' court, he was followed by Pringle who scored 11 points and four rebounds, while William Lively with 11 points and nine rebounds, and Melvin Stevenson with 10 points and four rebounds.

Other scorers were Patrick Collier with eight points and 12 rebounds, T. J. Salter with six points and two rebounds, Harvey McGriff with five points and a rebound, Anthony Burger with four points and two rebounds, and Clyde Ward with two points and a rebound.

Seider said the Raiders need face Lake Palooka, the third place Raiders simply stayed ahead of the competition in a physical game and shot better from the field.

In that game, Pringle led the scoring with 11 points and 11 rebounds, Stevenson followed with 11 points and four rebounds and Lively scored 10 points and four rebounds.

Collier made eight points and seven rebounds, McGriff made six points and four rebounds, Salter threw five points and pulled in two rebounds, Woods made one point and four rebounds and Burger made one point and one rebound.

Seider said the Raiders shot poorly in the Saturday night 66-53 loss against North Shore, but the basket only 32 percent of the shots attempted, although he rebounding was fairly good.

He said he also had to keep some of the players on the bench.

Pringle also led the Raiders, scoring 11 that game with 20 points and 11 rebounds, while Lively followed with 12 points and four rebounds.

The following night, the Raiders will play North Shore on the Glades Central court. Seider said he hopes the team will do better this week. Next week, the Raider group against Central New man in the Crusader home court, leaving only three more games for this season.

Glades Day stomps Belle Glade Christian

Glades Day school forged ahead for a 7-6 record with a win over Belle Glade Christian, 52-26, at Glades Gym Tuesday night. The loss drops Christian Day to a 4-8 record.

Forward Jorge Echave once again led the Glades offense scoring 33 points Tuesday night. Another forward, Brandon Markham, also came to the forefront Tuesday scoring eight points.

Glades Day Coach Dick Schmidt said the team has performed about as he expected for the first half of the season, however Schmidt predicted the Gators will win at least five of their seven remaining matches.

Coach Schmidt said he expects a tough game with Kings Academy Jan. 16, Schmidt predicted the team would not fall as easily this time around.

"Times just didn't play well last time, but they'll be tougher this week," Schmidt commented.

There was some whooping and some boisterous and a lot of tricks maneuvers last Friday night when the Glades Central faculty challenged the "Red Heads," a traveling women's basketball team and succeeded in grabbing a few laughs for themselves.

Yep, for those of you who missed it, the Athletic Council really came up with a magnificent idea to raise money when they asked this female "Harlem Globetrotters" team to come to Belle Glade.

Before a jam-packed crowd the gym appeared as if it was about to burst, Rosie Waters led her gang of red-haired ladies, some no doubt dyed red to an 89-79 victory cracking jokes, fancy dribbling and sharp shooting while the crowd just roared.

It was surprising how many people came to watch this game, but they got their money's worth. It was easy to tell from the start that it wouldn't be an ordinary basketball game when Rosie, the "Meadowlark Lemon" of the group, followed this little girl around and asked for some popcorn. The little tot almost let her have some, then suddenly jerked the box back with a vehement "NO" and ran off, leaving the rest of us there broken up in laughter. Rosie then proceeded to clown around with anyone and everyone up in game time, when matters got a fraction of an inch more serious.

The Red Heads jumped and shot their way to a 20-point lead before the sluggish faculty members could even get their first basket, and that was when Lake Shore Junior High School instructor Bill Eads came into the game and made a beautiful long shot. At one time the faculty tried four times on the rebound to get the ball in without any success. Welding instructor Bill Pikes added a little excitement when he reached for the basketball and got an armful of Redhead hair.

During the first quarter, the Red reached for the ball she kicked it across the court, might not sound funny now, but if you were there and saw the official's expression, you would know what I mean. Another Red Head told Bill Pikes on the floor begging for forgiveness jokingly, of course when he fouled her.

The faculty members really hung in there although they had dropped to at least 10 points behind and didn't appear to be catching up. Luckily, they had a lot of players, some of them really had a workout on the playing court and came to the sideline gasping for breath. Guess it did them a little good though, you could see in some guys where their punches needed a workout.

Meanwhile, the Red Heads were hammering it up, with Rosie at one time crawling through the legs of Pikes (which wasn't too hard with that giant) and came up and made a basket, and the Cheerios Kid was shouting dribbling demonstration and some difficult shots (indeed, some were so difficult even they couldn't make them but you gotta give 'em credit for tryin') such as a head shot, chow shot, spin shot, and behind the back shot, not to mention an attempt to make a basket with the posterior.

Rosie demonstrated some fancy dribbling in sitting and prone positions and doubled with some more dribbling. Another Red Head impressed the spectators with her basketball juggling, never missing a stop very nice.

By now you figure those Red Heads would be a little fagged out but if they were they didn't show it. Nope, in the five minute rest they had before going back out on the court, the players went around trying to sell programs.

The third quarter continued with more jokes as Rosie took that ball at one time and when the referee wanted it, she put it on the floor and told him to come on and get it. As he

Good fishing

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Pearson of Belle Glade recorded a nice catch of 60 specks on Wednesday. Corbin said and Jim Murray of Palooka picked up 61 specks of minnows that same day.

Pai Murray of Boynton Beach picked up three bass weighing up to four pounds and Larry Deakins of Tipton, Ind. pulled in six bass, with the heaviest weighing in at 8 1/2 pounds.

Lee Arden, Frank Blocker and a friend caught 300 specks Thursday and Friday.

Harvey Gareeth of Spring field, Ind. caught a nine-pound, eight ounce bass.

The kids were playing five-inning games, because the powers that be figured they weren't your everyday Jackie Robinson or Catfish Hunter type and didn't need to be playing so long. Ha! And Ha again!

It wasn't until the top of the 11th that anybody saw fit to come into home base...and I don't really know if they were that good or they just didn't want to stop playing. But you gotta figure that by the time the second game was over, those kids had played 16 innings of softball with only a short pause for the good cause between games.

Like I said, I ain't no kind of you baseball fan and it's been more than a day or two since I've watched more than an inning in a row but I enjoyed watching that game. Matter of fact, if I think leagues played the same brand of ball, I'd probably be out more often watching them too.

There was a little second baseman not much taller than knee briches that had to've caused at least a couple of double plays. Most kids that age would've hung onto the ball from now if they scored an out but not him. Didn't seem like it had hardly hit his glove than it was on it's way to first. Then there was Friday night, which is described pretty well on the sports page by Karen in her Korner.

Actually, I'm not so sure what the American Red Heads did to the men from Glades Central who were playing them could be called sports.

Considering the way Rosie Waters and her crew were clowning around the court it looked more like show business to me but whatever you want to call it, it was hilarious.

Got me in just the right mood to go over to a friend's house Saturday night and help him team up on his and a neighbor's sons and daughter. Course we had to get some help from his neighbor too...the old man, I mean not more kids.

First time I've handled a basketball in a while now and I kinda surprised myself. I made a basket...and never mind the basket was five feet from the ground to accommodate the shorter set. Have to admit though. They weren't exactly regulation rules we 'uz playin' by. On t'other hand, maybe it wasn't so bad to just pick up a player and trot him off the 'court' and declare him out of bounds.

There's a moral there somewhere but I'm not sure what it is or if it should be recognized. Maybe its that kids should be required to play more innings and longer periods than adults. Anything to get rid of some of that energy.

Matter of fact, if the International Olympics Committee ever decides to sponsor a real marathon, and I ain't talking about one of your 26 mile runs, I mean a long one, I figure that's the place to put the six-year olds.

When have you ever seen a major league pitcher hold out for 18 innings?

And Rev. Matthews, who was head coach and athletic director for 16 years at Bethune-Cookman, seemed to know what he was talking about and how to say it.

Matter of fact, and I think anyone attending that banquet would agree, the man who coached the head coach and athletic director at Glades Central was one of the best speakers I've heard in a while. And when you're in this line of work, you hear a lot of people blow air over the years.

I mean, those kids were climbing us like they were swarming up a pecan tree with the first ripe nuts of the year and besides that they cheated. They didn't smoke and when we called off the game because we were fagged out they were ready to go for a couple more hours.

Red Heads

All-American Red Head Rosie Waters seems to be contemplating the world but if she is, it's the world of basketball. It was part of the half-time show Friday and she was spinning a basketball in one of several positions. The Red Heads defeated the GCHS men 81-79.

Defeated by Blue Devils

Raiders lose away hopes

The Glades Central High basketball team won an easy game against Lake Wales Thursday but lost to North Shore on Saturday and Pahokee on Tuesday virtually eliminated any hopes for a share of the conference championship.

"The bad part about the loss against Pahokee," Raider Coach Jay Seider said Wednesday, "is that Atlantic lost last night too. If we'd won, we would've been only one game behind."

"As it is now," he said, "we're just about out of it. All we can do now is to concentrate on the district."

The 71-70 loss against Pahokee, Seider said, came as the result of a missed layup shot in the last few seconds of the game which would have given the Raiders a three-point lead. It wasn't until after that shot was missed that Pahokee came from behind in a last-gasp effort to win the game by the single, crucial point.

"Free throws kept us in the game," Seider said. "They went to the free throw line only 16 times and we went 31 times. They made nine points and we made 22."

"We had our chances," he lamented, "and we missed them, but I still remember that layup."

Michael Pringle was once again the leading scorer for the Raiders, scoring 20 points and nine rebounds, and Marvin Stevenson with 11 points and four rebounds.

Other scorers were Patrick Gullie with eight points and 12 rebounds, T. J. Salter with six points and two rebounds, Harvey McGriff with five points and a rebound, Anthony Burger with four points and two rebounds and Clyde Ward with two points and a rebound.

In the Raider victory over Lake Wales Thursday, Seider said the Raiders simply stayed ahead of the competition in a physical game and shot better from the field.

In that game, Pringle led the scoring with 11 points and 11 rebounds, Stevenson followed with 11 points and four rebounds and likely scored 10 points and four rebounds.

Gullie made eight points and seven rebounds, McGriff scored six points and four rebounds, Salter threw five points and pulled in two rebounds, Woods made one point and four rebounds and Burger made one point and one rebound.

Seider said the Raiders shot poorly in the Saturday night 66-51 loss against North Shore, hitting the basket only 32 percent of the shots attempted, although the rebounding was fairly even.

He said he also had to keep some of the players on the bench.

Pringle also led the Raiders' scoring in that game with 20 points and 11 rebounds, while likely followed with 12 points and four rebounds.

Burger made six points, McGriff scored five points and three rebounds, Perkins made three points and two rebounds, Stevenson made three points, Gullie made two points and nine rebounds and Salter scored two points and one rebound.

Seider said the Raiders next face Lake Wales, the third highest ranked 2A team in the state, at Lake Wales on Friday. He said he expects a strong show by Lake Wales because that was one of the schools knocked off by the Raiders on their way to the Fort Myers Christmas Tournament Championship.

The following night, the Raiders will play North Shore on the Glades Central court. Seider said he hopes the team will do better this week. Next week, the Raider goes up against Cardinal Newman in the Crusader home court, leaving only three more games for this season.

Glades Day stomps Belle Glade Christian

Glades Day school forged ahead for a 7-6 record with a win over Belle Glade Christian, 55-26, at Gator Gym Tuesday night. The loss drops Christian Forward Jorge Echave once again led the Gator offensive scoring 33 points Tuesday night. Another forward, Brandon Markham, also came to the forefront Tuesday scoring eight points.

Glades Day Coach Dick Schmidt said the team has performed about as he expected for the first half of the season, however Schmidt predicted the Gators will win at least five of their seven remaining matches.

Coach Schmidt said he expects a tough game with Kings Academy this Friday at the home gym. Although the Gators won an easy victory over Kings Academy Jan. 16, Schmidt predicted the team would not fall as easily this time around.

"Kings just didn't play well last time, but they'll be tougher this week," Schmidt commented.

There was some whooping and some hollering last Friday night when the Glades Central faculty challenged the "Red Heads," a traveling women's basketball team and succeeded in grabbing a few laughs for themselves.

Yep, for those of you who missed it, the Athletic Council really came up with a magnificent idea to raise money when they asked this female " Harlem Globetrotters" team to come to Belle Glade. Before a jam packed crowd the gym appeared as if it was about to burst. Rosie Waters led her gang of red-haired ladies (some no doubt dyed red) to an 89-79 victory cracking jokes, fancy dribbling and sharp shooting while the crowd just roared.

It was surprising how many people came to watch this game, but they got their money's worth. It was easy to tell from the start, that it wouldn't be an ordinary basketball game when Rosie, the "Meadowbrook Lemon" of the group, followed this little girl around and asked for some popcorn. The little tot almost let her have some, then suddenly jerked the box back with a vehement "NO!" and ran off, leaving the rest of us there broken up with laughter. Rosie then proceeded to clown around with anyone and everyone up to game time, when matters got a fraction of an inch more serious.

The Red Heads jumped and shot their way to a five point lead before the sluggish faculty members could even get their first basket, and that was when Lake Shore Junior High School instructor Bill Pikes came into the game and made a beautiful long shot. At one time the faculty tried four times on the rebound to get the ball in without any success. Welding instructor Bill Pikes added a little excitement when he reached for the basketball and got an armful of Redhead instead.

Leading 30-23 at the end of the first quarter, the Red

Heads opened their bag of tricks in the second. Throwing sharp retorts all through the game, Rosie at one time put her hands over one faculty member's eyes while he had the ball and yelled "I got him!" at which time four other Red Heads grabbed for the ball and the official call for a jump ball.

The faculty members came up with all shapes and sizes and Rosie took advantage of John Tudor's short, roly-poly status and grabbed his jersey. Tudor, playing along with the joke, began running in circles around her, reminding me of those old slapstick movies. Needless to say, that was a foul on Rosie and she let everyone know with an "I did it!"

With the score 54-41 at halftime, the crowd got a change to rest their insides from laughing so much (myself included) and for those who weren't waiting in time to get drinks, popcorn or other refreshments, the Red Heads performed their halftime show which consisted of a knee dribbling demonstration and some difficult shots (indeed, some were so difficult even they couldn't make them - but you gotta give 'em credit for tryin') such as a head shot, elbow shot, spin shot and behind-the-back shot, not to mention an attempt to make a basket with the posterior.

Rosie demonstrated some fancy dribbling in sitting and prone positions and doubled with the "Cheerios Kid" with some more dribbling. Another Red Head impressed the spectators with her basketball juggling, never missing a step - very nice.

By now you finger those Red Heads would be a little fagged out but if they were they didn't show it. Nope, in the five minute rest they had before going back out on the court, the players went around trying to sell programs.

The third quarter continued with more jokes as Rosie took that ball at one time and when the referee wanted it, she put it across the court - might not sound funny now, but if you were there and saw the official's expression, you would know what I mean. Another Red Head had Bill Pikes on the floor begging for forgiveness (jokingly, of course) when he fouled her.

The faculty members really hung in there although they had dropped to at least 10 points behind and didn't appear to be catching up. Luckily they had a lot of players, some of them really had a workout on the playing court and came to the sideline gasping for breath. Guess it did them a little good though, you could see in some guys where their pajamas needed a workout.

Meanwhile, the Red Heads were hammering it up, with Rosie at one time crawling through the legs of Pikes (which wasn't too hard with that giant) and came up and made a basket, and the Cheerios Kid was shooting some beautiful layups.

The coup de grace came in the fourth quarter when Rosie became the "referee" and called some weird fouls or penalties such as one time when one faculty member jumped to make a basket and she penalized him for "both feet off the floor at once." She then called another faculty member for "traveling without a suitcase". The referees got into the game when she called for a jump ball between them, and then No. 1 on the Red Heads attempted to teach the officials some tricks.

It was an attention grabbing game and the Athletic Council deserves the credit for coming up with the idea. Let's hope the Red Heads will be able to make a return appearance next year.

The third quarter continued with more jokes as Rosie took that ball at one time and when the referee wanted it, she put it on and get it. As he

Good fishing

Gordon Corbin of Slim's-Fish Camp reported good fishing on Lake Okechobee this week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Peabody of Belle Glade recorded a nice catch of 60 specks on Wednesday. Corbin said and Jim Murray of Pahokee picked up 61 specks of minnows that same day.

Pat Murray of Boynton Beach picked up three bass weighing up to four pounds and Larry Deakney of Tipton, Ind. pulled in six bass, with the largest weighing in at 8 1/2 pounds.

Lee Arden, Frank Blocker and a friend caught 300 specks Thursday and Friday.

Harvey Gareeth of Spring field, Ill. caught a nine-pound, eight ounce bass.

...naming the quarterback to the All-Area Academic Team

Michael Pringle found going two ways in football can be rough but it can also have its rewards when he was named Most Valuable Player on the 1975-76 Glades Central Raider football team.

Pringle, now playing basketball for the Raiders, won the coveted award Monday night during the Glades Central Winter Sports Awards Banquet. He was cited for outstanding performances at offensive and defensive end by Coach Willie McDonald.

"Mike made the difference in several games," McDonald said as he gave Pringle the trophy on behalf of the coaching staff. Considering his performance during the current basketball season, Pringle could very easily become the Most Valuable Player in both of the school's two most popular sports.

His was one of a number of awards given by the coaching staff in three different sports. Also during the banquet, Coach John Tudor presented a trophy to Cephas Knowles as the Outstanding Cross Country runner and Coach Barbara Finney said Alma Rolle, who wasn't present, would receive the trophy as the Outstanding Volleyball Player for the year. Tudor said he was present ing the trophy to Knowles for his leadership he had shown during the year as well as his personal performance in the three-mile runs he made. Other trophy winners included Anthony Burger as the Outstanding Offensive Back, Patrick Collie as the Outstanding Defensive Back, Davey Locke as the Outstanding Offensive Lineman and Bruce Rimes as the Outstanding Defensive Lineman.

Trophies for most improved players went to Leroy Jenkins as defensive lineman, Raul Pace as defensive lineman, Phillip Stinson as defensive back and Nathaniel Howard as offensive back.

Burger also won a plaque from the Palm Beach Times for his efforts in winning the Unsung Hero Award and David Philpott won a plaque for being named the Times' Academic All-Area Team.

The main speaker for the evening was the Rev. Rudolph "Hunky" Matthews, pastor of the Mt. Bethel Baptist Church in Daytona Beach and Head of the Health and Physical Education Department at Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona.

Matthews coached football and basketball at Bethune-Cookman, as well as holding down the job of athletic director there, for 16 years, where he had also played both sports earlier in his life.

While there, he coached Glades Central head football coach Willie McDonald, Glades Central Athletic Director Johnny Davis and West Area Human Relations Expert Daniel Bethwood.

He received a standing ovation from the players and guests following his speech.

GCI inmate runs

A prisoner serving five concurrent life sentences for rape and robbery escaped from Glades Correctional Institution Sunday while participating in a Jaycees car wash.

Keith W. Willoughby, Jr., newly elected president of the Institution's Jaycee organization, took a green 1973 Chevrolet Capri owned by an employee in the prison cafeteria, Charles Taylor of Clewiston.

Taylor's car was in the line to be washed by the Jaycees fund raising car wash.

Willoughby walked to the end of the prison parking lot supposedly to pick up the Taylor vehicle but drove away from the Institution instead according to Robert V. Turner, Assistant Superintendent.

Turner said a GCI officer was supervising the car wash detail, but did not notice Willoughby was gone of a short period of time.

The assistant superintendent said Willoughby had been in prison since 1972 and was probably not due for parole consideration. He said he didn't know why the inmate chose to escape, however he said the escape was probably planned beforehand. Turner said prison officials have investigated the circumstances of the escape but found no evidence any other Jaycees members or other prisoners were involved.

The incident occurred between 12:30 - 1:30 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 1st.

GCI psychologist Larry Duisberg said the escaped prisoner had a history of impulsive actions and feelings of being persecuted. "That impulsiveness is probably what got him into this," said Duisberg.

Willoughby was described as 6' 2", 160 lbs., with blue eyes and red hair. He reportedly has a tattoo of the "Star of David" on his right arm.

Doctors invited

Glades area physicians were invited by the Heart Association of Palm Beach County to take part in a program by Dr. John H. Laragh, a world-renowned expert on hypertension which will be presented three times and places this week.

The program, on "Renal Factors in Hypertension," will be presented at 9:30 a.m. today at Boca Raton Community Hospital, at 9 a.m. Friday at John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital in Lake Worth and at 9 a.m. Saturday at Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

Dr. Laragh is director and master professor of medicine at Cornell Medical Center in New York and was featured on the cover of Time Magazine on Jan. 13, 1975.

Appropriate Continuing Education Credits have been awarded by the Florida Medical Association and the American Academy of Family Physicians.

For more information, contact the Heart Association at 655-8150 in West Palm Beach.

Band to appear

James P. Slutz, coordinator of the Florida Southern College Music Department, will direct the Florida Southern Band at 7:30 p.m. tonight when it performs at the Glades Day School Gymnasium. The program to be presented will be diversified, including classical, jazz and popular selections. Slutz, who has 65 members in the band, is governor of Province 13 of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national music fraternity.

In 1972, he served as associated conductor of 185-member student band and choral group which toured Europe under the auspices of the "Young American Musicians Abroad" program.

You gotta have heart

So what are Ginger Mavrogilli, Julie Mills and Gina Farley doing with Laura Hayes? Well, since they're the decorating "Wannabes," the only fellows they're decorating her. Course they're really supposed to be decorating the Belle Glade Elks Lodge for the annual Heart Ball on Feb. 20. Neal Smith and his Orchestra from Miami will once again play for the 15th Annual Ball in Belle Glade. Chairman Sue Teets stressed one difference for the 1976 ball, saying it would be held on a Friday night instead of Saturday. Tickets for the ball, which will begin at 8 p.m. and go until 1 a.m., are being handled by Mrs. Diane Carter and can be obtained by calling her at 996-4300. Mrs. Sherry Barnes is handling the table reservations, which can be obtained by calling her at 996-5247.

Alliance Church to host conference

The Belle Glade Alliance Church at 425 E. Canal St. will host a Missionary Conference at 7:30 p.m. nightly except Saturday Feb. 1-3.

Local women win awards at fair

Homemakers from the Belle Glade and Pahokee areas last week received blue rosettes at the South Florida Fair in West Palm Beach for displays they were exhibiting according to Arlen C. Jones, Palm Beach County Extension Home Economics Agent.

The name of the Glades area group winning the blue ribbon rosette is the District III Extension Homemakers.

Christian and Missionary Alliance possessing more than 900 missionaries in more than 42 foreign countries.

The Rev. J. H. Revelle, mission field chairman and missionary in Vietnam since 1950, will be among the featured speakers. This veteran missionary was evacuated from Vietnam just a few days before it fell to the Communists. He was serving as chairman for the Mission when the Highland City of Banmethout was over-run by Communist troops and five of his fellow missionaries were taken captive.

During the conference he will describe the last days before Saigon fell. He will also tell of the growth of the church in recent years. The Alliance has more than 490 churches with 500,000 people attending in Vietnam.

Ms. Anita Reader, missionary to the Republic of Gabon in Africa, will also be ministering. With medical and nursing abilities, she will explain the vital need for soul to be reached in this African country. Gifted in speaking French and a tribal language, "Gegsoo", she works in many villages.

Another special speaker will be the Rev. Paul McGarvey, recent missionary to Israel. Slides will be shown on the recent Israeli-Egyptian conflict and how Christians are faring in this land. He will also be explaining Home Missions in the United States.

The public is invited to attend these services. A free-will offering will be taken.

Baptist ministers to meet

Members of the Palm Beach County Baptist Minister Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday to hold the installation of officers for the coming year. The installation ceremony will take place at St. John Baptist Church in Belle Glade.

The Rev. J. B. Adams is the minister of the church and is also the president of the association. He has held the position of president for several years.

Dr. Coaston of Riviera Beach will "emcee" the affair. Dr.

William Hall Jr. of Friendship Baptist Church in West Palm Beach will be the main speaker and Rev. C.N. Conner of Riviera Beach will give the charge to the officers.

The meeting will get underway at 7:30 p.m. with a music program given by guest choirs from churches all over the county and the installation will begin at 8 p.m.

Besides Rev. Adams, the officers to be installed will be the Rev. L. J. Alford as vice president, the Rev. E. Coffee as secretary and Col. Brewer as treasurer.

The association members will be back in Belle Glade Feb. 21 when they will hold their monthly meeting at New Bethel Church at 10 a.m.

The association holds its meetings monthly and rotates them from one church to another throughout the county. The public is invited to the installation ceremony.

This Earth

We've all heard that a picture is worth a thousand words. But this photo tells the whole story of mankind.

The barbed wire symbolizes this earth we live in—filled with war, hatred, greed. Transcending the ugliness of this world is the Cross, symbol of Christ's sacrifice for us, the promise of eternal life.

But we don't have to wait till death for a better life. We can do something about that barbed wire. More understanding, and selfless — not selfish — action would do much to purge our world of ugliness.

God's Church is the natural means of resolving discord. Human nature being what it is, heaven on earth is impossible. But improvement on earth is possible — necessary!

Water management topic at Audubon meeting

Solutions to improve the water in Lake Okechobee was the topic of discussion at the January meeting of the Lake Okechobee Audubon Society held at the Everglades Experimental Station in Belle Glade.

Lake and Kissimmee River and emphasized that solutions are available to improve the quality of water. He also showed a film titled, "A Living Lake."

Members of the Audubon Society were requested to support the Constitutional Referendum that will be on the March 9 Presidential Preference Primary. Nunn told those present that the water management in Florida is one of the most important problems today. He stated: "Here is an opportunity to support good water management in South Florida and it will not increase your taxes one cent."

Lawrence J. Nunn, director of public information for the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, reported on an FCD study of the

"Careers in Fashion" was the theme of a presentation by Kathleen Dunlap of Fashion

Institute of America at Glades Central High School last Friday.

The presentation was part of the career education program at the high school, said Mrs.

Lisa Walker, occupation specialist and career education guidance counselor.

A film portraying the many facets of the fashion industry from modeling to retailing and store management was included in the presentation.

The fashion program was presented as a result of interest expressed by many students in the field of fashion said Mrs. Walker.

Similar programs have been presented by the Art Institute of America (commercial art), the Personnel Director of U.S. Sugar Corporation and by County Judge Don Adams who conducted an actual trial at Glades Central.

The purpose of these programs is to aid students in choosing a career said Mrs. Walker.

Here's how to identify those tax credits

Having identified the deductions, exemptions and adjustments that will save money on your 1976 income taxes, now we can zero in on the credits. Credits are effective tax cutters because, rather than reduce the income subject to taxation, they apply dollar for dollar to the tax itself.

Thus a five dollar credit is the equivalent of five dollars in your pocket.

For example, if you bought a new home in 1975, you may qualify for a credit of five per cent of the purchase price up to $2,000. It has to have been a new house built, or started before last March 26 and you must have bought it at the lowest price at which it was offered since last February 28. In addition, the contract must have been signed before the end of 1975.

Any part of the home buyer's credit not applied against 1975 income taxes is lost; there is no refund of excess amounts. So if you have a tax credit of $1,000, for example, and your income is only $750, $250 of the credit is wasted. Use IRS form 5405 to compute.

If during 1975 you bought a car or other asset even partly used in business, you may be in line to get back a pro-rated part of the cost, up to 10 per cent, as a business investment credit. Ask for IRS form 3468.

Another credit which, if you prefer, can be taken, as a deduction instead is the one for political contributions. This credit has been doubled and now equals one-half the contribution up to $25—$50 on a joint return.

Those who take the standard deduction instead of itemizing will, of course, have to claim the political contribution as a credit. Those who itemize and thus have a choice will be guided by their income bracket.

Higher income taxpayers generally gain more from taking the deduction. Figure it both ways to decide which is better for you.

Over-withholding of Social Security taxes, a common occurrence for those holding two jobs, creates a credit that should be applied to the income taxes you still owe. Any excess can be applied to your 1976 estimated tax or returned to you as a refund. The same is true of any excess income taxes that may have been withheld from your paychecks.

If you used large quantities of gasoline and lubricating oil in machines other than highway motor vehicles—boats, tractors, mowers or saws—it might be worthwhile to claim the credit of two cents a gallon on the gasoline and six cents a gallon on the oil. Use IRS form 4136.

For taxpayers in lower-income brackets, far and away the most important credit is the one on earned income, a sort of negative income tax. For a qualified taxpayer—one who maintains a household in the U.S. that includes at least one of the taxpayer's dependent children—the credit is 10 per cent of earned income up to a credit of $400 on income of $4,000. After the $4,000 income level is passed, the taxpayer begins to lose the credit at the same 10 per cent rate, so that when income reaches $8,000 the credit is gone.

Boston experiencing day to day hardships

by JEROME TURK & WM. D. ELLIS
BOSTON, Feb. 7, 1976 -- J. Turk assigned me to find out what is going on inside Boston, especially as to what General Sir Wm. Howe intends & what conditions in Boston & what have the British done to her.

With even spies or traitors hardly able to get in or out of the town, it seems a harsh assignment. But as Turk made no apology for assigning it, I assume he considers it normal duty.

I studied what clandestine traffic might possibly be moving across the water into Boston under cover of darkness. Approached an acquaintance of supple patriotism to question if he thought anyone was running food or firewood over to the Lobster Backs at night. He said no, but for a half guinea he could connect me to a medical practitioner who was taking in quinine, Ipecac & certain tonics. It would get me in. Getting out, he wasn't sure.

We went in over the ice at midnight at Lechmere Point.

The town does not rise early & when it does, activity is limited to survival work by the citizens, the getting of food & medicine & firewood. For the latter, wooden fences are disappearing & some old buildings are gone. Old South Meeting House has been turned into a stable by Burgoyne's dragoons. Deacon Hubbard's pew is now a pigsty.

The sniveling Tories complain of lack of nourishment, loss of property (which they left to seek refuge here) & of the pox that has swept the city this winter.

The 10,000 British troops are well quartered. The officers are in the finest houses, including John Hancock's mansion on Beacon Hill. It is known that Sir William Howe (as well as his brother, Admiral Richard Howe) prides himself on seeing to the welfare of his men, the more so lately since the high casualties of Bunker's Hill.

There is high regard for the 47-year-old general among the Redcoats, the Tories & even some patriot folk. Some, however, smirk & say he is dallying so much with a pretty 25-year-old local girl, Betsey Loring, that Howe forgets he is supposed to attack Gen'l Washington. Bunker's Hill may have knocked the fight out of him.

Howe was bold enough as a young officer fighting in North America 17 years ago. He held a brigade under Wolfe to scale the heights of Quebec & beat the French in '59.

I side with those who say the handsome Gen'l Howe has a leaning toward the colonists. Two years when studying the hustings for his seat in British parliament, he told his Nottingham townsmen that if offered a command to fight the colonists he would refuse.

I cannot understand those who say he holds back the attack because he has long believed that the direct frontal confrontation of massed armies is foolish slaughter. I won't forget him pushing three red waves head-on at us up Bunker's Hill last June. A piece of lead from a Brown Bess musket keeps reminding me.

It's said the Howe brothers are now together in charge of England's entire North American war, although Admiral "Black Dick" has not yet arrived on the scene. That's strange because both are reported to be partial to the colonists they are commissioned to subdue. They carry great weight at home in England where it is thought they are cousins to the king, their grandmother having been a mistress to George I.

If Howe is slow to attack, it must be said he runs a hard-disciplined army here in Boston.

The men drill & work at the lines. Looting is severely punished.

Faneuil Hall, the forum of patriots & home of Boston town meetings, is converted to a callow theatre sporting humorous plays, scribed by the regimental clown. A play called "The Blockade of Boston" ridicules Gen'l Washington as a country buffoon. Wait till they meet him in battle!

Patriots suffer in silence here. James Lovell lingers in chains since last June. Paul Revere's son (who looks 15 years) did not escape with the family & keeps watch on his father's shop. The boy is somehow strong-arming food. Brave lad!

I felt nervous walking up the High street, expecting any moment to be stopped to show papers. I don't everyone to be staring at me. I keep forgetting that we're the same people, mostly, in Boston or Concord.

Tonight I will try to get out of here. I may then find there are differences.

U.S. 27 construction contract let to WPB firm

A contract to do $238,849 worth of work on US 27 north of South Bay has been left to Dixie Asphalt Co. of West Palm Beach according to an announcement from the Florida Department of Transportation (DOT).

The work consists on 5,957 miles of light shoulder grading, resurfacing the existing sub-bound land with asphalt concrete, leveling the course and an asphalt concrete wearing course.

Reflective markers will also be installed in the pavement on the route of the work, which will begin at Bridge Number 16 and extend to the city limits.

National heritage program at library

New Dimensions 76 and the Belle Glade Municipal Library invite you to a presentation at your library on Wednesday, Feb. 11, at 1:30 p.m. Isaac Glouberman, who has been an instructor in the education of older adults in New York City, will present the program "Events That Shaped Our Nation." This will be a review of our national heritage and very appropriate for all our Bicentennial year.

New Dimensions 76 is a cultural enrichment project of the United Way of Palm Beach County and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. The retired people who conduct these programs have a wealth of knowledge and experience in the arts, sciences, and various professions to share with us. Come and enjoy your public library.

Lupus Foundation to meet

The Lupus Foundation of Florida will present Mrs. Henrietta Aladjem and a presentation on the rare disease at 6 p.m. Sunday at the Palm Beach County Classroom Teachers Association at 715 Spencer Dr. in West Palm Beach.

Lupus Erythematosus, or lupus as it's known for short, is a disease which causes the small blood vessels of the body to become inflamed. There is no known cure but controls have been found.

Mrs. Aladjem's program, The Sun Is My Enemy, is a lecture on the disease and what can be done to help victims of Lupus.
